The Department of Education determines a student’s status as dependent or independent by the answers the student provides on the seven questions listed in Step Three of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Students are classified as dependent or independent because federal student aid programs are based on the principle that students (and their parent or spouse) are considered the primary source of support for postsecondary education.

In rare and well-documented cases, a student’s financial aid dependency classification may occasionally be changed due to circumstances like abusive family situations, release into court custody for their protection, current parental incarceration or complete parental abandonment. An appeal for reclassification to independent student status is usually granted on the basis of a complete irreparable breakdown of a family relationship due to more than personal choice.

Note that the factors below do not make a student eligible for a dependency override:

- Parental unwillingness to give information or financial help to the student
- Whether or not the parents claim the student on their federal tax return
- Whether or not the student lives with the parent
- Whether or not the student pays all their own expenses

The following information covers the procedure that determines a student’s eligibility for a “Dependency Override.” UWS’s Financial Aid Director will review the student’s appeal by examining the supporting documentation provided by the student, and will either approve or deny the student’s request. The student will be notified in writing within 10 working days of the decision being made.

Circumstances Given Consideration

1. A student’s voluntary or involuntary removal from their parent’s home due to an extreme situation that threatened the student’s health and/or safety, and due to these conditions parental support was terminated.
2. Incapacity of parent(s) such as incarceration, mental or physical illness or the inability of the applicant to locate the parent(s).
3. Other extenuating circumstances that can be sufficiently documented.

Review Procedures

1. All submitted documentation will be reviewed by the Financial Aid Director.
2. An official notification of the Director’s decision will be sent to the student along with an explanation of any further action necessary to complete his/her application for aid.

Renewal of a Dependency Override for Future Years

A dependency override is granted on a yearly basis. Therefore, a student who was granted a Dependency Override in the previous academic year must reapply each subsequent year. The Financial Aid Director will request documentation from the student regarding their current status for review.
